A QUAIN OLD TAVERN

The Old Cheshire Cheese, 'In

the Heart of London.

SERVES A FAMOUS PUDDING.

A Noble Pastry It is, and It Was

Sampled by Such Men as Gladstone,

Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Trollope and Whistler.

Nearly all Americans when they go to London make it a point to visit that quaint old tavern in the heart of the newspaper and printing business, the Old Cheshire Cheese, to partake of its famous pudding.

It is the Londoner's delight when he gets back to Fleet street to make a rush for the pudding, and it is almost

the last thing he eats before leaving

it. Travelers in the Sahara have seen mirages of that pudding, and during the Boer war the men shut up in Ladysmith and Mafeking dreamed of it at regular intervals.

Precisely at 1 o'clock p. m. Tom conveys the pudding from the first to the main floor. It is a big pudding, and the price of it is just 2 shillings—that is to say, a feed of it is 2 shillings, as much as you please, as many shares as you ask for, cut and come again, all for 48 cents of American coin. Cheap, aye, and, oh, how good it is! As it worth crossing the Atlantic to get a sniff of it, and the aroma lingers in the memory for many a day.

Big? The dimensions are Faustian.

It is a round earthen vessel something more than two dozen inches deep, with a diameter of about eighteen inches.

A noble pastry, my masters!

When it is placed upon the service

table an elliptical white crust meets the hungry gaze. Tom and his myr-midons take their places in front facing the host, who, knife and spoon in hand, poses with dignified and benig-nant mien. It is a moment of solemn thought when every man hopes that his portion will be larger than his friend's and that he will be blessed with an abundance of gravy. But they ought from years of acquaintance with the host to understand that his hand is as steady as his judgment is impartial.

No more and nothing better for one than for another. He waves his wep-sons, and the first onslaught is made.

The room is full of a delicious steam bearing with it the concentrated essences of ambrosial substances. The guests sniff it up and murmur choice blessings on the cook, the original inventor, the house and the host. It is a time when men feel good, one toward the other.

One smell of that pudding makes the whole world kin. This famous pudding, which has tickled the palates

of thousands, is thus compounded:

A crust of flour, water and suet.

Beefsteak.

Larks.

Mushrooms (freshly gathered).

Oysters.

Stock.

Pepper and salt.

But it is the boiling that does it.

For at least twelve hours this heaven pudding is kept slowly simmering

in an immense copper specially constructed for the purpose. It must not boil quickly, but the same temperature be kept up the whole period. The steak assumes a juicy tenderness; the larks—not sparrows, as some malignant spirit has suggested, although sparrow pudding is not to be despised—

are seethed to the bone, and you can chew up each little songster without an effort; the kidneys are soft and mushy and offer no resistance to the digestive organs, and the oysters, despite their lengthened cooking, are not leathery. The amalgamation and assimilation of the variety of constituents are perfect; the result is bliss.

There is a story told of one eminent literature who had seven helpings of the pudding and still yearned for more,

and there is another remarkable narrative of four men who ordered a pudding of the regulation size and finished

it among them.

J. Pierpont Morgan praised the pudding, and Theodore Roosevelt was delighted with it. Lord Beaconsfield bestowed his approbation thereon, and Gladstone thought it far superior to

JEFFERSON'S PICTURES.

A Wonderful Landscape Painted Entirely From Imagination.

Marvelous were the products of Jefferson's inspiration. He had created a school of his own. He was prone to portray forest scenes, with tree trunks

of wonderful size, in accurate military formation. Old mills were a favorite subject with him, especially old mills

with water wheels, and in some of his paintings he actually accomplished the impossible, for to all intents and purposes he succeeded in making the water run uphill. This having been called to his attention by an overcritical friend, Mr. Jefferson responded that he was well pleased with the result, for

"few men could have accomplished it."

When president of the Players club,

a position he held for so many years before his death, Mr. Jefferson presented to the club a large canvas of his own. If the writer remembers correctly, there was a pond in the foreground, with rushes, a tumbleweed

house and a large and rather theatrical looking forest, all painted, the artist boasted, in the dead of winter

in his own sitting room and entirely from his imagination. When it was first displayed, on the walls of the course none of the old gentleman's gifts was ever refused it attracted much attention, and one day Mr. Jefferson, being in the club, seized a brother member, who happened to be a man whose pictures had on more than one occasion won prizes in the salon, and stood him before his own

The Congressman of The Second District.

DUNCAN MCKINLAY is not only on the right side but he is a representative whose personal attainments have won him a position of distinction in Washington. The man who has American affairs at his finger tips, who has the ear of President Taft at all times and is making himself heard throughout the country by the magnetic power of his oratory is this same California Congressman from the Second District. He has been on ten trips of great national importance with the President and during the past year made a lecture tour in behalf of the administration through the Southern States. Surely the administration would choose the flower of the Congressional flock—the most persuasive and logical speakers from among present day orators—to carry on the work of disintegration in the once solid south.

Mr. McKinlay is a tireless worker and says he enjoys touring the country and posting up on the needs and problems of the different sections. He is a force within himself and while admitting that he is close up and an active factor in present day politics, he attributes little of his success to luck. He has ridden for miles in the face of ruthless weather. He has hammered at problems and cleared the minds of men on great issues when his voice was husky with continued nights of speaking. He has never halted where other men came to a stop. No man has gotten closer to the President than this Californian sprung from the ranks of the American mechanic. Unquestionably a potent factor in American politics to day, we may well speculate on the ultimate destiny of this Westerner seeking no preferment yet in an evident position to get much, for with the apparent "shine" which Taft has taken to him he might be more in the public eye. But his is the quiet, unspectacular way—preferring to serve his party than to shine as a political luminary.

The Second District is glad to have chosen a Congressman who has made good, who takes a hand at cards with the President and is likewise in on every important move of the administration. What laurels such a man can bring to the state and himself is a problem worth waiting to see worked out.

He is personally acquainted with America from one end to the other and his present position of acknowledged advantage makes him the object of keen speculation.

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach. A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Memorandum.

The City of Sonoma lies in the well-known valley of that name in Sonoma county, California. It is in a country devoted to general farming, the principal products of the neighborhood being wine, fruit, hay, grain and poultry. The manufacture of paving blocks is one of the principal industries.

Sonoma has good railroad service. There is one line running through the city, the Southern Pacific within a mile of the city and there are several other lines within a dozen miles on either side. At the present time there is considerable talk of connecting Sonoma with a suburban electric road.

Messrs. Mason and Locke, Attorneys and Municipal Bond specialists of San Francisco, have examined into the proceedings connected with the issuance of these bonds, and certified to their validity.

BEAUTIES OF THE NEW PRIMARY LAW

District Attorney Lea Gives

Written Opinion Which

Covers Some of the In### tricacies of the ### Monstrosity.

The new primary election law—that reform monstrosity of the last legislature—having caused confusion worse than confounded among the voters, District Attorney Clarence F. Lea, who has been besieged with inquiries concerning the same, has given out the following written opinion governing the same:

"Having received numerous letters of inquiry relative to the new primary election law, and especially upon the manner of voting at such primary election, I submit the following for the guidance of voters in Sonoma county generally.

"The blank space or spaces beneath the names of candidates for nomination for the respective offices to be voted for at the August primaries, are for the purpose of permitting a voter to vote for whomsoever he pleases for the nomination of any office.

"When a voter goes to the polls the officers in charge will examine the Great Register to see if the voter's name appears thereon, and if so, to what political party he belongs. If he is registered as a Democrat he will be handed a Democratic primary ballot. If registered as a Republican he will be handed a Republican primary ballot, and so on with the Prohibition, Socialist, etc., parties. The voter will take his ballot and retire to a booth the same as at a general election and proceed to mark his ballot by stamping a cross opposite the name of each person for whom he desires to vote as the candidate of his party for the respective offices. Should he be dissatisfied with one or more of the names appearing on his own ballot as a candidate or candidates for the nomination to such respective office or offices or should there be no name printed on his own ballot as a candidate for the nomination to such office, the voter may then write in the name of such person (a member of any party), as he may desire should be the nominee of his party for such office, without making any cross opposite such name so written.

"When the votes are counted the person receiving the greatest number of votes (whether the name be printed and a cross stamped in the square to the right or the name written in) in each of the several parties shall be declared the nominee of such party. Hence a Republican may vote for a Democrat or a Democrat for a Republican, at a primary election just the same as at a general election, and the same with any other party, but such votes affect only the party ticket of such voter and does not affect any other party ticket. For instance, if a Democrat votes for a Republican for the nomination for a certain office that vote is counted for such Republican as a candidate on the Democratic ticket for such office, but if there are two or more candidates for the nomination for such offices on the Republican primary ticket, such vote on a Democratic primary ticket does not in any manner affect the contest between such Republican contestants for the nomination on the Republican ticket. For example, Curry, Anderson and Johnson are all candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor. Should a Democrat voting a Democratic primary ticket cast his vote for (write the name of) Johnson, that would be counted as one vote for Johnson as the Democratic nomination for Governor, but would not in any way affect the contest between Curry, Anderson and Johnson for the Republican nomination for Governor. Should Johnson receive more votes on the Democratic primary tickets than Bell, the Democratic candidate, then Johnson would be the Democratic nominee for Governor and Bell's name would not appear on the ballots to be voted at the general election in November. Thus it will be seen that one person may receive the nomination of his own party, or of two or more parties, if he receive more votes in the district than any other person on such party ticket. Thus each voter in the State has his opportunity to independently express his wishes as to whom shall be the nominee of his party for any office within the gift of the people of the State.

Respectfully,

CLARENCE F. LEA,
District Attorney of Sonoma Co.
By G. W. HOYLE,
Assistant District Attorney.

Forest Fire.

The forest fire which broke out in the mountains on the dividing line between Napa and Sonoma counties a few miles north of town last Monday was got under control Tuesday afternoon. The fire burned over many thousands of acres of timber and pasture land, and for a time threatened the destruction of the Gerick farm. A number of fire-fighters from Sonoma and near-by ranches responded to the call for help Tuesday morning and by back-firing stopped the progress of the flames after a heroic fight with the fire. The cause of the fire is unknown, but is supposed to have been started by deer hunters from Napa county.

The Prize Masquerade Ball

The prize masquerade ball given at El Verano Villa, on Thursday night of last week, was the biggest success of the season. Goldstein & Co., the costumers of San Francisco, furnished quite a number of costumes to the merry-makers, and many of the creations were very comical, while others represented nearly every walk in life and ye olden times. There were cow-boys and cow-girls, Indians, chevaliers, knights of old, court ladies, Topsyis, Happy Hooligans, clowns, Rubes, etc. The music, which was furnished by Messrs. Peebles & Rampone, was inspiring and added much to the pleasures of the evening. The former is well-known to party goers in this valley, having furnished music for the Villa for several years. He is a splendid violinist. Mr. Rampone, who presided at the piano, has had much experience, having played in many of the best theatres and cafes both here and in the East. Among these we might mention Chester Park, Cincinnati; Delmar Garden, St. Louis; Cave Cafe and Washington Square Theatre, San Francisco.

Mr. Louis Lamotte is to be congratulated on the success of the balls and social dances that have been held at El Verano Villa this season and for the orderly manner in which they have been conducted. Six prizes were awarded for the best sustained characters at the masquerade as follows: Miss Rose Masten, El Verano; Bert Williams, Oakland; Miss Anita Bernadon, Oakland; Henry Breucher, San Francisco; Miss Mildred Thompson, San Francisco; "Heinie," Sonoma.

For Railroad Commissioner.

H. C. Irwin, candidate for the Republican nomination of Railroad Commissioner for the First District, publishes his political card in these columns. Mr. Irwin who is a resident of Marysville, is a safe man for Republicans to vote for as he is essentially a man for the people and in every way qualified to see that they get the square deal in so far as the office of Railroad Commissioner is concerned. Being under the domination of no political clique or clan, as a man seeking that office ought to be, a vote cast for him will be in the interest of the taxpayers of this district. We therefore commend him to the Republican voters of Sonoma county as being a man entitled in every way to their suffrages.

Calabaza Creek Bridge Contract Let to San Francisco Firm.

The Board of Supervisors on Wednesday last opened the bids for constructing a bridge across Calabaza creek at Glen Ellen. The bids were as follows: Mervy Elwell Co., $3990; Thompson Bridge Co., $4717; Standard Construction Co., $5,405; George Rielly, $4,489. The Elwell Co. being the lowest and best bidder the contract was awarded to that company.

THE PASSING OF A GOOD CITIZEN.

Lorenzo Modini, the Pioneer

Hotel Man, Ex-City Trustee

and Exempt Fireman,

Goes to His Reward.

Lorenzo Modini, for over forty years a resident of Sonoma, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. Beretta, on Friday evening of last week, after an illness of several weeks.

The deceased located in this city in the sixties and with his wife, who passed away a number of years ago, engaged in the hotel business. Upon the death of his wife Mr. Modini retired from business and after a visit of two years in Italy returned to his old Sonoma home to spend the rest of his days.

Mr. Modini was a good citizen and the soul of honor in his domestic life and business dealings and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens. For years he was foreman of the engine of the Sonoma Volunteer Fire Department, which office he resigned a few years ago. He was also elected a City Trustee in the eighties and served a four years term, and out of respect to his memory the flag which floats over the New City Hall was placed at half-mast as soon as his death became known.

The deceased, who was a native of Italy and aged 65 years, leaves two children, Mrs. A. Beretta and James L. Modini, residing in this place. D. Modini, the well-known merchant of Petaluma, and M. Modini of Lakeville are brothers of the deceased and Mrs. V. Pygeorge of San Francisco and Mrs. A. Sanguinetti of Mokelumne Hill are sisters.

The funeral took place from the home of Mrs. Beretta, the funeral services being held in St. Francis church.

The funeral was the largest ever held in this city. Preceding the hearse and long line of carriages the volunteer firemen on foot acted as an escort of honor.

The remains were interred in the family plot in Mountain Cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends.

New Law Firm.

The attention of our readers is called to the professional card of Kellogg & Kellogg attorneys-at-law, Santa Rosa, which appears elsewhere in these columns. The senior member of the firm, Mr. L. B. Kellogg, has had an experience of more than thirty years in the active practice of the law and is an ex-Attorney General of Kansas. The junior members of the firm, Messrs. F. H. and C. M. Kellogg are also lawyers of experience. The former comes from Oklahoma, where he was engaged in active practice for eighteen years and for nine years was secretary of its State Bar Association. The latter was admitted to practice in 1903 and during the past few years has been associated with his father, Mr. L. Kellogg, in Kansas. The gentlemen, father and sons, have located in Santa Rosa and opened law offices at 541 Fourth street, where they will be pleased to meet clients.

Sonoma House Changes Hands.

The Sonoma House has changed hands, Messrs. L. Pollini and G. Favetti assuming control. The new land-lords are well-known San Francisco caterers and under their management we bespeak for the Sonoma House much success.

Melitta Blockmaker Found Dead in Bed.

A Melitta blockmaker named Basil Rogers was found dead in his bed in his cabin at Melitta last Wednesday morning. The discovery was made by his bunk mate, who notified the Santa Rosa authorities. An inquest developed the fact that deceased had died from natural causes. He was a Belgian, unmarried, and aged 37 years.

UNKNOWN HOBO HANGS HIMSELF.

Body Discovered on Banks of Sonoma Creek Suspended to a Tree.

Thursday afternoon while a young man who is stopping at one of our resorts was walking along Sonoma creek, between Parente's Villa and Boyes Springs, he was horrified when he came suddenly upon the remains of a dead man suspended from the limb of a tree.

He notified the Sonoma authorities who visited the spot, cut the remains down and brought them into town.

An inquest developed the fact that the suicide was an unknown hobo, evidently a German and aged about 50 years. The man had tied a rope around the limb of a tree on the steep banks of the creek and fastened the other end around his neck, leaped into eternity.

The suicide must have been committed several days before the discovery of the body, which was badly decomposed, so much so that it necessitated a hasty burial in the Potter's field in Valley Cemetery.

Will Erect a Hatchery

B. E. Darling is erecting a new hatchery on his chicken ranch south of town and will install five new incubators as soon as the hatchery is completed. It is the intention of Mr. Darling, who is an experienced poultry man, to engage largely in the business of incubating chickens.

AN ARCTIC CAMP.

Peary's Canvas Tents, Which Were Absolutely Snow Proof.

"A man's first night in a canvas tent in the arctic is likely to be rather wakeful," says Commander Peary in Hampton's. "The ice makes mysterious noises, the dogs bark and fight outside the tent, where they are tethered, and as three Eskimos and one white man usually occupy a small tent and the oil stove is left burning all night the air, notwithstanding the cold, is not overpure, and sometimes the Eskimos begin chanting to the spirits of their ancestors in the middle of the night. Sometimes, too, the new man's nerves are tried by hearing wolves howl in the distance."

"The tents are specially made. They are of lightweight canvas, and the floor of the tent is sewed directly into it. The fly is sewed up, a circular opening in it just large enough to admit a man, and that opening fitted with a drawstring, making the tent absolutely snow proof. An ordinary tent when the snow is lying would be filled in no time."

"The tent is pyramidal, with one pole in the center, and the edges are usually held down by the sledge runners or by snowshoes used as tent pegs. The men sleep on the floor in their clothes with a musk ox skin or a couple of deerskins wrapped around them."

"The kitchen box for our sledge journeys is simply a wooden box containing two double burner oil stoves with four inch wicks. The two cooking pots are the bottoms of five gallon coal oil tins fitted with covers. When packed they are turned bottom side up over each stove, and the hinged cover of the wooden box is closed."

"On reaching camp, whether tent or snow igloo, the kitchen box is set down inside. The top of the box is turned up and keeps the heat of the stove from melting the wall of the igloo or burning the tent. The hinged front of the box is turned down and forms a table. The two cooking pots are filled with pounded ice and put on the stove. When the ice melts one pot is used for tea and the other may be used to warm beans or to boil meat if there is any."

"Each man has a quart cup for tea and a hunting knife which serves many purposes. He does not carry a fork, and one teaspoon is considered quite enough for a party of four. Each man helps himself from the pot—sticks in his knife and fishes out a piece of meat."

"The theory of field work is that there shall be two meals a day, one in the morning and one at night. As the days grow short the meals are taken before light and after dark, leaving the period of light entirely for work. Sometimes it is necessary to travel twenty-four hours without stopping for food."

The Difference.

"Mistah Walkah, kin yo' tell me de difference 'tween a cold in de head an' a— a— a— chicken coop wit' a hole in de roof?"

"No, Sam; that's a hard one. What is the difference between a cold in the head and a chicken coop with a hole in the roof?"

"De one am a case o' influenza, an' de udder am a case o' out flew hens, Suh."

"Ladies and gentlemen, the vocal wonder, Professor Wabble Izzers, will now sing the popular ballad entitled 'The Lips That Carress a Story Shall Never Touch Mine.'—Chicago Tribune.

The Cobra of India.

Among the true cobras of India the naja is found all over India and Ceylon, Burma, the Andaman islands, southern China and the Malay peninsula and archipelago. It ascends the Himalayas to an altitude of 8,000 feet. It extends also over Afghanistan and through Persia to the eastern shore of the Caspian. It may attain a length of nearly seven and a half feet, but it is usually not more than a little over five and a half feet long. Najas vary much in color and markings, but have generally the spectacle mark on the back of the neck, which they always distend before making an attack.

Fish in Former Times.

Men of former ages, unless they lived near the sea or a river, had great difficulties in gratifying their taste for fish. The great houses had their fish ponds or stews, but sea fish, such as cod, bream, sturgeon, herring and sprats, were salted, and the excessive consumption of highly salted fish in the middle ages is said to have produced leprosy. Fish was also baked in pies to enable it to be carried for great distances.

Firmness.

"When my wife makes up her mind," said Mr. Meekton, "there is no use of arguing with her." "But every woman changes her opinion sometimes." "Yes. And Henrietta is particularly resolute when she makes up her mind to change her opinion."—Washington Star.

Self love is at once the most delicate and the most vigorous of our defects. Nothing wounds it, but nothing kills it.
